

VeganActivism.org, new site launched on New Years to help Vegans get involved in spreading compassion through activism in 2019!

VeganActivism.org, vegan activism hub and comprehensive list of vegan activism organizations launched January 1, 2019 to help vegans worldwide find organizations and resources, to spread knowledge and compassion for animal rights and animal liberation.

Amsterdam (The Netherlands), 1/1/2019.

Dutch based organization You Are The Voice launches their first project VeganActivism.org which helps vegans and activists by listing reputable vegan organizations in need of support.

Founder David van Beveren said "When I decided that I wanted to do more than just be vegan, I searched all over for organizations and ended up frustrated by the uncertainty of which ones were right for me. After attending my first Anonymous For The Voiceless street demonstration The Cube of Truth and having a phenomenal experience there, I came home and immediately started working on a site that would list all of the organizations I found in one easy to find spot."

VeganActivism.org features over 20 activist organizations with descriptions, videos and links to find upcoming events and contact information easily. The site includes a sidebar with more than 15+ other forms of "micro-activism"; ideas where vegans can find actions that require little effort to do right from home if they want to jump in to test the waters. Conveniently, the site also has two search bars powered by Facebook and Meetup which allow people to quickly find groups to join and events to attend near them.

VeganActivism.org continues to add more organizations and expand information resources in collaboration with community feedback. The site has been featured by Reddit's /r/Vegan community with over 280,000 subscribers, being prominently presented on the sidebar and header of the subreddit. "We are very excited by the amount of support and feedback we've received in just the last two days and we'll be developing and adding more features as early as next month." van Beveren says. "The Economist says that 2019 will be the year of the Vegan. I think that's something we can achieve as long as we don't get complacent with the success we've had in 2018. Now is the perfect time to join thousands of other vegans and get involved together in activism, large or small, to help bring about a more compassionate world!"

Start 2019 off by visiting VeganActivism.org and find a group, event or organization nearby that can use your help. Remember that even the smallest of actions in activism can mean the world of difference to both our animal friends and the planet. Thank you!